SCRIPTORIAL --

By Editor Walter Caldwell

At the recent NSCA convention in Bluefield, WV, two topics garnered considerable discussion. Time at the annual meeting was given for all present to air their thoughts on these items.

The two concerns are: (1) The problem with overgraded rarity tokens being offered for sale by members and being listed in the Mail Sale and the Convention Mail-Floor Auction. (2) The problem of members attending the convention but not being present for the membership buffet dinner and the lack of members present from participation in the buffet breakfast and the membership meeting.

On the first concern, Scriptor W. C. Stump has addressed this issue and his thoughts are contained in another section of this bulletin. All members are requested to give this matter consideration and let the Editor have the benefit of your thinking. Information from the replies received will be published in a future bulletin.

Suffice it to say that all members who are aware of overrated tokens should certainly advise potential buyers that the catalog is in error. As Scriptor Stump indicates in his article, the catalog is now about five years old and the rarity scale is outdated based on current buy and sell figures. Your Editor is included in those who have been "stung" by buying supposedly high rarity tokens only to find later that a hoard has surfaced on the market.

Your Editor realizes that a new issue of the catalog cannot be published each year due to the heavy cost. Too, considerable time would be required of the Catalog Committee to accomplish this. How this problem can be resolved should be of concern to every member.

The second concern regarding the buffet dinner and breakfast at the semi-annual meeting also merits the attention of all members, but especially all members who have ever attended or who plan to attend a future meeting.

Briefly, when the hotel is contacted for meeting reservations, one of the requirements is that the ballroom will be provided without cost to NSCA if a certain number of rooms are reserved AND that two meals will be catered by the hotel. This was the contract at our Bluefield meeting.

Without the meals, most hotels will make a charge for using the ballroom for two days. This cost could be a rather considerable amount in certain locations where we hold meetings.

As you are aware, NSCA has always provided FREE tables for members and has used the proceeds from the Mail-Floor auction to offset the other convention expenses - coffee, ladies hospitality room, posters and signs for the meetings, etc.

If the buffet dinner and buffet breakfast are discontinued, it will probably be necessary to charge each member for a table. This is the practice at most hobby club meetings.

At the Bluefield meeting there were approximately one hundred and fifty persons in attendance on Saturday. Only about twenty five bought tickets and attended the Buffet Dinner. Your Editor realizes that sometimes the dinners are not great and that the member can dash out to Long John Silvers or the Colonels and get a dinner for much less.

The plans for the Spring 1989 meeting at Paintsville, KY have been made and the present plan will continue. However, so that the Board of Directors can be guided in making future plans, your input is needed on this problem.

Should we charge for tables?

Should we discontinue the buffet dinner and breakfast?

Should funds from the General Fund be used to pay a portion of or all of the room charges for the bourse?

Would you still want a table if a fee was charged - say $10.00 ?

Do you have any ideas on a solution to this problem?

Please complete the following survey and return at once to: Walt Caldwell, P. O. Box 29, Fayetteville, WV 25840.

THE N. S. C. A. RATING AND EVALUATION CONTROVERSY

By: W. C. Stump

Since 1983, the National Scrip Collectors Association has used, as its official reference guide, the Edkins Catalogue of United States Coal Company Store Scrip, written by Donald O. Edkins and published by the N. S. C. A. This second edition of Edkins book, along with a book written by Gordon Dodrill, 20,000 Coal Company Stores, is the most commonly referred to reference book covering coal company scrip today. The major problem with this book is that the rating and pricing guide are so outdated that many collectors, especially the beginners, are facing a major problem in relying on this reference book alone to guide him in purchasing coal company scrip. This problem has created an unpleasant controversy among the scrip collecting society. This problem is what I wish to address in this article.

Before I continue, I want to state for the record that in no way am I criticizing the dedicated efforts of Mr. Edkins, any official of the N. S. C. A., or any one person directly. All views expressed are mine alone, although many have been expressed by various members of our Association. During the fall N. S. C. A. Convention at Bluefield, W. Va., the problem caused for much discussion, and I overheard many heated discussions with fingers being pointed to various individuals, officers and directors. I am a firm believer in constructive criticism and hope that my views are taken in that respect.

First, the rarity scale in itself poses no problem. In any field of collecting, how rare the item is influences the value of the item. Unfortunately, the "green back" always enters into the picture. Very few scrip collectors can escape the "dollar squeeze" when it comes to purchasing a rare token for their collection. That's the way things are. Everyone expects to pay a fair market value for new items. In turn, collectors selling their collection expects to sell their items at the current market price. Many, myself included, don't mind paying somewhat over that price to acquire a good token but hate to pay a high R10 price only to find out that the token is not rally an R10 and has a much lower value. Unfortunately, this experience is becoming evermore frequent and even the "seasoned" collectors are feeling the "sting" of disappointment, not to mention the new collectors that are having second thoughts about purchasing scrip. Many new collectors have actually quit collecting because of this problem.

The second part of the problem exists with the outdated unit value as listed in Edkins book. Trends concerning the monetary value of scrip is nowhere near the prices listed in the 1983 reference book for all scrip rated R7 and above. Ironically, the tokens rated R1 through R6 can easily be purchased at or below the suggested prices.

The third, and final problem concerns the listed rarity scale for certain tokens. Many listed R9 and R10 tokens are not true R9 or R10 tokens. The same is true with other existing rated tokens. Others are underrated or appear to be due to the impossibility to even locate a collector that has an example of a particular listed token. A good example is with the Turner Fuel Company, Evarts 975 J series. The scrip is listed as an R8, except for the J100, which is listed as an R9. I have yet to locate but one 5 cent token, seen one 10 cent, and heard of only one complete set. The Turner family does not possess a single token. In my opinion, this scrip should all be rated R10. Therefore, where do we turn for correct and accurate information to help us all avoid the ever present and growing number of pitfalls in this most interesting hobby? The answer is through a new revised edition of our organizations reference guide. The problem is that the new revised edition is at least three years away from publication. Can we wait? Can the beginning collector expect to survive? It is the collector of tomorrow that will carry the legacy of Fred Lange, Gordon Dodrell, Paul Williams, and Paul Jensen into the next decade and next century. We have to recruit and accurately educate the collectors of tomorrow. Most of all, we must work together to overcome this nagging problem. We need to offer suggestions as to how we as individuals can assist the officers and directors in correcting this problem in a speedy and efficient manner. Possibly a special section could be added in Scrip Talk to cover all new finds, report new hordes, list the current new trends to values observed on the market, mail bids, etc. The formation of regional or specialty fields committees to re-evaluate the existing catalogue could assist the New Finds Chairman. Sitting back and offering nonconstructive criticism will accomplish nothing. If you have an idea, write the President or any officer of the Association, and let's all work together to preserve the wonderful hobby of scrip collecting.

PAUL JENSEN....."He cast a Long Shadow"

There is really nothing I can add to Jerry Schaeper and Walter's comments that they made regarding Paul in the last issue of Scriptalk. I counted him my friend like many others did and we shared a lot of pleasant memories in the short time that I knew him.

As a private joke in our trading I often referred to him as the "Flim Flam" man, and it always got a laugh. I can't recall a single NSCA Spring or Fall Meet since I have been a member that he didn't always provide some of the best R-9's, R-10's, and even R-11's(U-L) in his album for sale or trade. He just had a talent for sniffing good scrip out. I might add that some of the finest scrip that I own in my personal collection came from Paul.

I loved Paul because he appreciated the little man. Everybody was the same to him, no matter who you were or what you were. I miss him so much already and I only hope I can talk to him again some day.....

May God bless.

AS TIME AND SPACE PERMITS.....SCRIPTOR CHRIS JONES of Kenvir, KY is looking for pieces of BLACK MOUNTAIN CORPORATION. His family owns some of the old company property and Chris works for the Harlan Police Dept. He is looking forward to Paintsville convention..
.....SCRIPTOR DON EDKINS is moving back to Virginia. His address is: 134 Maxton Lane, Williamsburg, VA 23185. Make a note of this change in your membership roster....SCRIPTOR STEVE ROTH of Norwalk, OH has a nice token "SCARBO SALOON//G/F 5c" Reverse printing is inside a pictorial barrel on the token. He wonders whether it could be from Scarbro, WV. Can anybody help on this??..... MARJ JENSEN writes asking that her thanks be conveyed to all the members for their remembrances and cards. She notes that the tribute to Paul by Jerry Schaeper will always be remembered and that she will miss attending the meetings and meeting all of the collectors....TOM FRANZ pens that Samuel Dixon (see article in this issue) was his GREAT grandfather. There was an error in the article. He also notes that his first marriage was in 1875 and that he became a US citizen in 1901.....SCRIPTOR HAROLD BALDWIN sends along an article from the Oct. 16 The Philadelphia Inquirer noting the closing of coal mines in Western Pennsylvania and the loss of thousands of jobs since the mines are being sealed. This interesting article will be added to the archives of NSCA....SPECIAL NOTE TO ALL MEMBERS: The new A.B. Dick mimeograph machine will print only copy up to 7½ inches across the page. Thus, for all who submit articles and information for the bulletin - including ADS - please note this limitation!! Any printing outside of this limit will not print on the machine!! A portion of this issue of the bulletin was prepared on the new equipment so hope that you will note an improvement in the bulletin. I also purchased a new Eklund electronic stencil machine and am learning the technique of its use.....

SCRIP NEED FOR THE MAY MEETING AUCTION

We urgently need 30 pieces of metal or paper scrip rated R7 or higher to auction Saturday night at our semi-annual meeting in Paintsville, Ky. PLEASE, PLEASE go through your duplicates and send us one to ten pieces. Your scrip will be read by more than 400 NSCA members in 38 states, so coal and lumber pieces from the southeastern, central, midwestern and western states would be appreciated. Don't assume that someone else will fill our needs. We need YOUR scrip.

Our commission rates are quite reasonable: up to $10.00 - 20%; $10.01 thru $50.00 - 15%; $50.01 thru $100.00 - 10%; and $100.01 and over - 5%. We have a $5.00 minimum bid, and any piece which does not receive the $5.00 bid will be returned to you without any commission or postage charge. We also give you the option of placing a minimum bid on any piece, with the provision that if it does not sell, we only charge you 50% of the regular commission and we pay the return postage. In addition, if you are attending the meeting, you may bid on your own pieces. HOWEVER, if you are the high bidder, you will be charged the full commission.

You, of course, may add pieces to the auction at the Paintsville meeting, BUT, in doing so, you lose the opportunity to expose your pieces to 400 members.

The entire proceeds of the auction are used by NSCA to defray meeting expenses. In this way, we are able to conduct our meetings without any charge for tables or registration.

PLEASE help NSCA by sending us whatever pieces you may have. Send them to Auction Coordinator, PO Box 3015, Oak Ridge, TN 37830 so as to arrive by February 1 so that we may advertise them in the following issue of SCRIP TALK. Many thanks.

NSCA CAPS FOR SALE

We still have a number of NSCA caps to sell at the semi-annual meeting at Paintsville for $4.00 each OR by mail for $5.00, which includes packing and shipping.

The caps are in two designs as shown below and five different colors gold, silver, blue, navy blue and maroon. The gold and silver caps are one solid color. The blue, navy blue and maroon caps have a white front. The designs are screen printed in blue ink, and all caps are fully adjustable in size.

Mail orders may be sent to Bill Williams, PO Box 3015, Oak Ridge, TN 37830. Please specify design and color and give us a second choice just in case. Caps will be shipped by U.S. Mail unless you specify UPS.

COLONEL SAMUEL DIXON

EDITOR'S NOTE: The material for this article was provided by Bill Williams. It was made available to him by Tom Franz of Ashland Ky. Tom's Grandfather - Fred Dixon was an employee of Colonel Dixon. Sam was Tom's Great Grandfather.

While I realize that the photo as reproduced by the mimeo process is not great, it gave me a chance to try out the new machine. The picture was photo-copied from a history book. It, at least, will provide you with an image of the man who developed the great coal fields of Fayette Co., WV.

As I learn the A.B.Dick system, may be able to come up with some better photos and possibly some scrip pictures...

Colonel Samuel Dixon, Dean of the Coal Industry in Fayette County.

Samuel Dixon was born at Skelton, Yorkshire England on November 14, 1856, the son of James and Ann (Faulkner) Dixon. His father was in ironstone miner.

As a lad, Sam worked as a trapper boy. Due to hard times in the mining industry in England, many began to look to the U. S. as a land of wealth and prosperity. Sam came to the U. S. in 1877 and worked for his uncle, Fred Faulkner. Faulkner owned mines in West Virginia.

Sam rose quickly in the Faulkner organization. Some of the positions he held were Supervisor, Mine Foreman and bookkeeper. Through the 1880's his employment history was sketchy. Not much is known of him until about 1893 when he became President and General Manager of The MacDonald Colliery Company. During the 1890's he continued to acquire coal property which was merged into the New River Company in 1906. It is said that Colonel Dixon bought and sold more land than anyone in West Virginia.

COLONEL SAMUEL DIXON (Continued)

Sam resigned as President of The New River Co. in 1913. Among this many properties, Sam owned The Price Hill Colliery Co. on Loup Creek in Raleigh Co., WV. This property was abandoned due to a poor grade of coal. Colonel Dixon knew a richer vein of coal was located farther underground if the mine was reopened and production resumed.

The Colonel was forced to resign from The New River Co. because northern stockholders felt that Dixon was spending too much money acquiring property and they felt he was doing so for his own gain and at the expense of the company. The company was placed in receivership. During this time Colonel Dixon was named as one of the receivers. The company protested and the decision was reversed. But with the help of investors and friends, Sam was able to gain control of several properties including The Price Hill Colliery. He then severed all ties with The New River Company which continued to operate with a new President.

Sam reopened the Price Hill mine. True to his prediction a richer vein of coal was found. He built the town for his workers. The Price Hill mine became the most successful in the whole New River field. It employed 450 men and produced 480,000 tons of coal annually.

Sam died on July 6, 1934. The Price Hill mine continued operation until about 1940. It closed due to water in the mine.

Dixon built railroads to transport his coal in the 1890's. He became one of the railroad pioneers in West Virginia.

He also loved the press and at various times owned The Fayette County Journal, Raleigh County Herald, Charleston Daily News and Charleston Daily Mail.

The White Oak Railroad was built by Colonel Dixon and his associated in 1899. It ran from Glen Jean to Carlisle opening up the Wingrove, Scarbro, Whipple, Carlisle and Oakwood mines. This line was later extended through Oak Hill to Stuart opening up the Parral and Stuart mines. These were later known as Summerlee and Lochgelly. A connection with the Virginian Railroad was also constructed. Later the White Oak Railway was extended to Price Hill, opening up the Sherwood and Price Hill mines.

Sam was also involved in the construction of the Piney River and Paint Creek Railroad which ran from the mouth of White Stick, through the City of Beckley to Cranberry. The completion of this road developed the Sprague, Skelton, Prosperity and Cranberry mines.

Colonel Dixon purchased the Price Hill property in 1899, which then consisted of approximately 2000 acres of undeveloped coal lands. That same year he organized the Price Hill Colliery Company and later leased the property to The New River Company. (It was returned to him in 1913.)

During the latter part of the 1890's, the Colonel acquired a number of valuable coal properties. In 1895, he bought the Sugar Creek Coal and Coke Co. - in 1899 he bought out Justus Collins in the Collins Colliery Company and the John A. McGuffin interest in the Dun Loup Coal and Coke Company; Harvey Coal and Coke Company, and the Prudence Coal Company. His next move was to purchase the Great Kanawha Colliery Company operations with large frontage on the Kanawha River at Mount Carbon. Thus, he acquired river and rail transportation for his product.

The Mabscott Coal and Coke Company, Beckley Coal and Coke Company and more than 10,000 acres of coal land for the Crab Orchard Coal and Land Company were next acquired. All of these properties were merged into The New River Company in 1906. Sam served as President and General Manager from its organization until 1913.

Sam always had an active interest in politics. He was a delegate to the 1896 National Republican convention, and was a member of the Electoral College that elected McKinley President.

From about 1906 until 1912, Sam was firmly in control of the Republican Party politics. He never ran for public office, but during the period he was one of the most powerful political "bosses" in West Virginia. It has been said that on election day, Sam would vote "everything from mules to dead men". He was known to hire a train or trucks and load them with miners and travel from precinct to precinct in the mining towns. The miners would vote in each town. Tactics such as this would always bring forth Republican victories in Fayette and Raleigh County in West Virginia.

Sam and his family moved around a lot. They lived at Mac Donald for a time. Sam married Annie Hogg in 1872 and had a total of 10 children. In March of 1921 he married secondly Lucille French. They had three children. Sam had a large residence at Price Hill.

He had two brothers, Fred (my great grandfather) and William "Bill" Dixon, who also were miners. Many cousins throughout my family came from England, and came to the U. S. to work in the mines of Fayette and Raleigh Counties.

Sam, while President of The New River Co., maintained a series of retail coal yards in several cities including Cincinnati and Chicago. This allowed his coal to be transported all over the U.S. New River Smokeless Coal and its trademark became known across the nation for its quality.

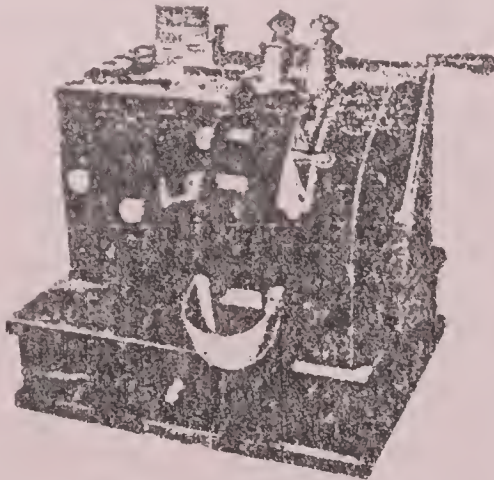

Sam also owned a mine near Midlothian, Virginia. He also owned much property near Richmond, Virginia, including a coal retail yard. He also owned a farm called "Dweberry" which he and his family enjoyed very much.

He tried to deepen the channel of the Kanawha River. This would make it easier to transport his product by river. The matter was handled by President Taft personally but Taft was not reelected in 1912 thus putting the project on hold. Years later, after Sam's death, the project was completed. He had a keen mind. Many of the things he envisioned have now come to pass. Stories about him have become part of the folklore of Fayette And Raleigh County.

Dixon had a diesel powered power plant installed at Price Hill which, at the time, was a first for the coal industry in W.Va. He helped put "King Coal" on his economic throne and kept it there. He knew and entertained many of the coal men, business men, and political leaders of his day including Senator Harley Kilgore.

Sam is buried in Doswell, Virginia.

He served as a lay minister in England. He helped to organize a Masonic Lodge in MacDonald, W.Va. in 1895. MacDonald is now a part of Mount Hope, W.Va.

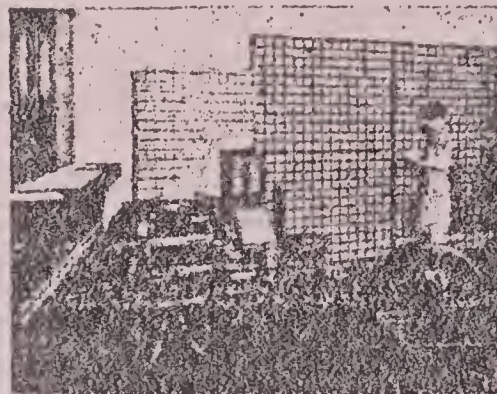

The OSBORNE Scrip Issuing and Recording Register illustrated above, issues the amount of scrip desired in just one-fifth of the time required by hand. It automatically makes a duplicate printed record of the amount of the issue. The issue is recorded on the Company's Record Card and the Employee's Pass Card and the amount is registered on the Daily Totalizer and also on the Grand Totalizer. There is no chance of issuing scrip without getting a complete record of the issue and there is no chance of giving an employee one amount and charging him with another.

Speed with accuracy, complete records and the proper control is the story.

PATENTED METAL SCRIP

Needs no introduction. We have more than 800 systems in a single state and we enjoy the patronage and confidence of users in 23 different states.
